Even better and a gorgeous rose that's made from 50% Mourvedre, 25% Cinsault and 25% Grenache, the 2013 Cotes de Provence Premiere de Figuiere sports a light salmon color to go with notions of rose petal, orange blossom, citrus and salty minerality on the nose. Medium-bodied, layered, elegant and balanced, it's a knockout rose that will be versatile on the dinner table, yet also drink just fine on a hot summer day. It's well worth tracking down.
